Your child's school will be implementing Success for All.

What can you expect for your child?

Active and engaging instruction based on research-proven strategies

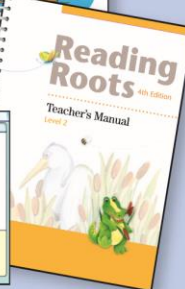

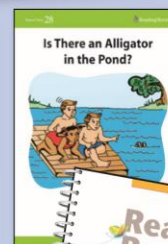

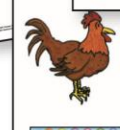

- The entire school will have a 90-minute reading block during which students are grouped according to their current reading levels.
- Children who are struggling will receive tutoring to help them catch up quickly.
- Children will be assessed at the end of each grading period on individual progress and then regrouped accordingly.

What will you be asked to do?

The Success for All reading program is designed to help parents and family members play active roles in their children's education.

- You will be invited to participate with reading homework.
- You will receive more contact from your child's teacher about his or her progress in school.
- You might be asked to volunteer at school or attend special events.

What can you expect from teachers and school leaders?

To facilitate student success, teachers and school leaders will receive onsite coaching and assistance with goal setting, action planning, and student progress monitoring. You can expect:

- engaging and interactive classroom materials for students to share,
- early recognition of how your child needs to be challenged to succeed in school,
- frequent classroom grades and assessment results, and
- a behavior management approach that teaches children to think critically, solve problems productively, and work cooperatively in teams.

The mission of the Success for All Foundation is to develop and disseminate research-proven educational programs to ensure that all students, from all backgrounds, achieve at the highest academic levels.

These programs were originally developed at Johns Hopkins University.
